Harry Tucker.

We are glad it happened.
A shave is what we needed, and when we went into the office of the chief of police to find out something on the quiet bout the Watt case, two fine-looking young fellows, named W. E. Wallis and G. Miller, came in.
They saw we needed a shave, and we slidn't deny it.
"Have one on us," they said.
And we had one.
When we looked it over we saw it was one of Hall's hones. "Vhat do you do with this?" we asked. "Hone your razor and then shave your-selft."

"We ain't got no razor."
"We ain't got no razor."
"He ain't got none neither."
"Well, take it, anyhow, and give it to your children to sharpen their slate pensils with."

Bo we took it, and we clis with.

So we took it, and we are going to get a razor somowhere, for a fellow that gets Jack Heintz to shave him every other day at ten cents per, can build a brick home in a hundred years.

Mr. W. T. Stephens, who owns the dbgs who do a lot of acting at the Bijou, says his dogs talk to cuch other and tell funny stories.

"They laugh and laugh," he said.
"Their stories are not altogether new." he said, "but it's the way you tell a story all the time." "Why does a dog wag its tall? one dog asked the other.
"Because the tall can't wag the dog?" "Because the tall can't wag the he dog?" "Gosh!" they say, and then they all laugh.

"Gosh!" they say, and then they all laugh.
"If one of the dogs gets sick," said Mr. Stephens, "I have an understudy. He can go on and do anything that the other dogs do."
We have arranged to call on the dogs and get them to tell us some good stories, and we will tell them to our friends.
Mr. Stephens has been all over the world with his dogs, and says he heard about us in London.
"I told the Prince of Wales not to mention us in London," he said, "but he never would pay any attention to what we told him. We will cut his acquaint-sace."

Learning to Walk.

Learning to Walk.

Clifton Bingham, the author of "In Old Madrid," has written 3:500 songs, of which 1:20 have been published and the other half rejected, says the Boston Post, Mr. Bingham is not himself a musician but he is an excellent musical citie. His ear is delicate and sensitive, and nothing annoys him more than to heav bad singing or bad hlaying.

He was visiting last month a cousin of his in London, and this cousin has a set, a boy of 12 or 13, who practices on the plane every morning. The muscular lad, banging failse notes from the instrument with tromendous vigor, tried Mr. Bingham not a little.

"What on earth are you playing there, Jirony?" the song writer called from the next room one morning. "An exercise from Flist Steps in Music," the boy answered.

"If knew you were playing with your feet," said Mr. Bingham, but would you mine, stepping a little lighter on the keys?"

Semebody told him that two could live chesper than one, and his salary of $10 a week was so small that it seemed a long time between pay days, says the Philadelphia Press, So, as a matter of economy, he got married.

He had the good luck to get a smart girl for a wife, who had literary ambitions. At the end of the first three months they were in debt to everybody who would trust them, and they held a condultation as to whether it would be wisen to go into bankruptey or move over to Jersey. Economy and retreschment was discussed at every meal, but in practical they went from had to worse, and the young husband began to lose color and have a worn and anxious look.

One evening he came home with a buildle under his arms, his head held high his step buoyant and a gleam of trumph in his eye. His wife was glad to see him thus, and made certain that he had at last got the raise in salary fiv which both had been noping. Sine set the evening meal before him and waited for him to say something. But, man like he kept her waiting. At last, when she could stand it no 'onger, she asked him:

him.
"'What is it, George?"
"I've found out how to live on ten

"Sure!"
"'I's all in this book." said he, taking up the package, "'Practical Household

"How much did you pay for it?"
"Beven dollars—si down and 50 cents

us how to live, why, it'll be cheap."
"Where did you get it?"
"Beok agent—came to 'ue office to-day—
all the boys bought one. Tou don't seem to think it's much of a bargain."

Floyd B. Greenhough, an engineer on the Great Northern roud, did a brave thing the other day. During a severe storm the wires at the station where his engine was were injured. Soon after this wan discovered, it was found that a nearby railroad bridge was on fire, and can express train was almost due to cross it. There seemed to be no way to warn the coming train, but Greenhough proved equal to the emergency. He got a light engine, crowded on a full head of steam, sent the engine thundering across the buinting bridge and reached a station wiers the wires were intact in time to avert a bad wreck.

"The Way of the Transgressor" has evidently caught the theatre-goers of the city all right. The playhouse is-filled at each performance, and the applicate indicates the freelings of the audience at the triumph of right over wrong. As a melodrama, it is one of the "busiest productions offered for many a day. Sensation and excitement are rampant at all times, and the situations afford ample opportunity for hand-clapping and appleause. The villain-well, if in real lie he approximates the role portrayed on the stage, he ought to be lung before the matinee is finished this afternoon. The play will run the remainder of the week.

REMARKABLE SUIT FOR RAILROAD PASS New Jersey Legislator Claims

A few years later Mr. Tylor ente ell the Senate as Vice-President, and shortly after went to the White House as President. Mr. Balley can hardly expect this precedent to follow in his case.— RIGHT ABOUT FACE

MARYLAND ORDER

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) ANNAPOLIS, MD., Jan. 27.—Govern-or Warfield has announced the appointnight does not contain the name of John W. Thompson, a prominent negro politician, who, it was said, had been invited to the function. Not since the time of Governor Black has a colored man attended a legislative reception at the Mansion. During the Troy Governor's regime a negro clergyman and his son were invited and attended. The gossip relative to Thompson was that he was expected to make the negro vote unanimous for the Republican ticket next November if he was assured of some recognition. The Republican itched has announced the appointment of Clinton L. Riggs as adjutant-general of the Maryland National General Riggs is a remarkable turn around in affuirs, as he was a major in the Fifth Maryland was extremely in disfavor with the then commanding officer of the regiment. Colorel R. Dorsey Coals, and with most of the other officers of the regiment. He came so unpopular that he resigned as soon as the regiment was mustered out of the Federal service and returned to duly in Maryland. General Riggs now assumes supreme command of all the officers who induced his regiment.

DIED INCH BY INCH, AS HE PREDICTED

Transportation as a Legal Perquisite of His Office. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 27.—Assembly-man Thomas P. Glennon, of Hudson county, has declared war against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in support of his right as a member of the Levislature to free transportation. He asserts that under the general railroad act of 1881 he is entitled to raisroad act of 1884 he is entitled to rallroad passes. The Pennsylvania insists that the granting of passes is a matter of privilege, not a right. Mr. Glennen has not received a pass thus fac in the session, and yesterdany he bourded a train in Newark without having purclassed a ticket. The Assemblyman told the conductor that he was a member of the Legislature, and produced his election certificate, but as he refused to pay fare the train was stopped at Blizabeth and he was put off. The Assemblyman took the next train to Trenton, paying his fare.

He says he will retain counsel to enter suit against the company for $10,000 BOY HARD TO KILL

AT THE ACADEMY.

"Florodera," the musical comedy which a New York critic said was "iespons,ble for puckering the lips of all the people in the universe by reason of the templation its tuneful numbers give to indulge in whistling," will be at the Academy most week, and on a grander scale than it has hitherto been presented. On former tours the membership of the company did not exceed 80 people, but this year Prisher and Ryley have un even hundred employed in its representation and the principals are the most prominent artists ever engaged.

In the case are Isadore Rush, R. E. Gruham Phillip H. Ryley, Greta Risley, Niel McCay, Harriet Morrit, Joseph Phillips, Linlary, Spencer and Thomas A. Kieroan, which, with a chorus of seventy, the famous sextects and a special orchestra makes a company splendidly equipped to rresent the play as it has never before The Bijou.
